MUFG and The Student Conservation Association Team Up to Support Conservation during “MUFG Gives Back” Volunteer Month

MUFG to Donate $150,000 to The Student Conservation Association

LOS ANGELES, November 10, 2017 – MUFG Union Bank, N.A. (MUFG) today announced its partnership with The Student Conservation Association (SCA) to officially launch “MUFG Gives Back” volunteer month. This past Saturday, MUFG and SCA kicked off the month of November helping conserve public lands in Seattle and New York City. Five additional events are planned across the country.

The MUFG Union Bank Foundation will also donate $150,000 to SCA to support activities that help protect the environment, which include job training and the introduction of “green” careers for young professionals. Through volunteer activities, MUFG Union Bank employees will partner with SCA alumni and youth groups to learn conservation skills while mentoring them on leadership.

“MUFG is committed to fostering a legacy that includes protecting the environment for future generations. Our investment in SCA supports many aspects of conservation and provides our employees with opportunities to give back to the communities where we live and work,” said Julius Robinson, the bank’s Head of Corporate Social Responsibility.

Although MUFG encourages volunteerism throughout the year, November is the month when the company unites its employees to support the local communities in which it operates. MUFG established November as global volunteer month in 2013 in response to the outpouring of support Japan received following the Great East Japan Earthquake.

“MUFG embraces its role in supporting the economic well-being of its communities, and is also doing its part as an environmental steward to secure the health of future generations,” said Jaime Matyas, President and CEO of SCA. “We look forward to working together and setting a positive example of sustainable practices for our young adults.”

The MUFG Union Bank Foundation (“The Foundation”) is a nonprofit public benefit corporation that serves as an agent for charitable contributions made by MUFG Union Bank, N.A. Since its creation in 1953, The Foundation has supported the bank’s commitment to help meet the needs of the communities that it serves. Its mission is to make philanthropic investments that expand access to economic opportunity in low- and moderate-income communities especially in the areas of affordable housing, community economic development, education, human services, and the environment.
